

ANTALL JÓZSEF
SUMMER SCHOOL

Call for Application

Organised by the Antall József Knowledge Centre, the Antall József Summer School is a one-week international educational programme examining Central Europe and its wider neighbourhood.

Through traditional and more interactive forms of education, including lectures, workshops, debates, roundtable discussions, and short trainings, AJSS provides a profound analysis of the Visegrad Cooperation's history, economy, foreign and security policy, as well as the newest trends that shape societies in this region.

This year the programme focuses on the 30th anniversary of the establishment of the cooperation and the Western Balkan region. In addition to the educational programme, the Summer School also provides an avenue to learn more about the Central European culture and values, and other participants' cultural heritage.

Place and Time of AJSS 2021: ONLINE and Budapest, 21-26 June 2021 (in person, if possible)

Who can apply?

- Young professionals aged 23-35 who are interested in Central European Studies, the Visegrad Cooperation, and the region in general, studying in the field of social sciences, humanities, economics, and legal studies, interested in international relations, political science, security studies, regional studies, economics

What will you need for application?

- an up-to-date CV (one page, in PDF)
- fill in the online application form

The deadline to submit your application through our website, www.ajsummerschool.org, is 2 May 2021, midnight CET.

For more information on the application process and the scholarships available, please consult www.ajsummerschool.org

Submit your application and explore Central Europe from new perspectives!

